

Hong Kong’ Role in a Globalizing World

Anthony Wu

Vice-Chairman, Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce

Ten years after the handover, Hong Kong and the region as a whole have come a long way. But arguably the most exciting challenges lie just ahead of us. Chinese companies are successfully starting to expand into global markets. They are seeking partners and alliances with companies and governments around the world. Just as Hong Kong companies have acted as a bridge for businesses around the world to go into China, now we need to look at how we can best serve Chinese companies to take on the world.